

Former Editor Named To Secretary of Army Staff

Earl Mazo, former editor of The Tiger and a member of the Clemson class of 1940, has been appointed special assistant to the Under Secretary of the Army in Washington. He was given a leave of absence by The New York Herald Tribune for the duration of his duty with the Army Department.

Mr. Mazo joined the editorial staff of The Herald Tribune in March, and within six weeks was promoted to assistant day city editor. He came to Clemson from Charleston, joined the staff of The Tiger as a freshman, was managing editor his sophomore year and editor the following year. At Clemson he was a member of Gamma Alpha Mu, the honor writers' fraternity, Blue Key and Tiger Brotherhood.

During one summer while he was a student he was a reporter for the Anderson Independent. During another summer he and a fellow Tiger editor, Thomas O. Lawton, published a Clemson community semi-weekly newspaper, The Commentator. Among the paper's columnists were the late Ben Robertson, the late Clemson president, Dr. Enoch Sikes, Miss Mary Katherine Littlejohn, and Prof. John D. Lane.

After leaving Clemson, Mazo was a reporter on The Piedmont, in Greenville, then The Greenville News, which he left in February, 1942, to join the Air Force. At the end of a tour of duty with a Flying Fortress group in England, he was assigned as a combat reporter to the European Stars and Stripes.

In 1945, upon separation from the Army, Mr. Mazo became editor of the editorial page of the Camden, N. J., Courier-Post. Later he was made political editor of this newspaper, and in May, 1949, took a leave of absence to be publicity director for the Democratic gubernatorial campaign in New Jersey that year. Later he became executive director of the Democratic party's leadership organization in New Jersey. He left this position last March to accept a place on the editorial staff of The Herald Tribune.

Craig Turner To Sing Leading Role In Opera

News has been received that Craig Turner will sing the leading tenor role in the opera "The Secret Marriage" next Friday and Saturday night in Ithica, New York. This opera is of the 18th century and was directed in Berlin in 1934 by Mr. Ken Baumann. He has translated the opera from German to English and with the aid of Mrs. Don Price, dramatic instructor at Cornell University, is directing the two performances at Ithica.

The opera is being sponsored by the Ithica Conservatory of Music and the Cornell University Music Club.

A Clemson graduate of '48, Mr. Turner is working on his Ph. D. in Entomology at Cornell.

Mrs. E. C. Turner Sr., will leave by plane Friday from Greenville to attend the performances.

Clemson Aero Club Seeks New Members

The Clemson Aero Club will meet Thursday night, October 5, at 6:45 p. m. in room 100 in Riggs Hall. There are eight shares of stock available in the club. Anyone interested in becoming a member should contact J. W. Liston in room 1-61.

The Aero Club was founded in April 1948, by twenty Clemson students who bought the first plane. The organization now owns three planes, two Piper Cub trainers and a Taylor Craft.

The objectives of the club are: to enable members to learn the art of flying; to enable members to obtain a certificate of private rating or higher, and to give members the privilege of flying at a minimum cost.

Information concerning membership into the club can be obtained at the meeting October 6 or from J. W. Liston.

H.D. Barker Takes Up New Position

Dr. Henry D. Barker, a native of South Carolina and a graduate of Clemson who holds advanced degrees from the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota, has succeeded Dr. Charles R. Sayre as head of the Division of Cotton and Overt Fiber Crops and Diseases, Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils, and Agricultural Engineering, (Beltsville, Maryland).

Dr. Barker became a field agent with USDA in 1917 while doing graduate work at Minnesota and, from 1924 until 1936, he was on the staff of the Haiti Experiment Station first as botanist and plant pathologist, later as cotton specialist and director.

Freshmen Fall For Annual Gag

An estimated two hundred freshmen were the butts of a traditional hoax October 4. At the noon meal in the college mess hall, an announcement was made over the public address system to the effect that the dairy department, "due to mechanical difficulties," was giving away one thousand gallons of ice cream to prevent its melting.

Armed with every kind of container from shoe boxes to garbage cans, the rats joined in a scramble for the dairy blessing.

The gag is repeated annually, and some freshmen are always taken in.

S. C. Canterbury Club Plan Fall Conference

Officers of the State Association of Canterbury Clubs and local presidents met at Trinity Episcopal Church in Columbia on September 30. Harry Bull, state president, of the University of South Carolina, presided over the meeting. The purpose of the meeting was to plan the fall conference which will be held at Rock Hill on December 1, 2, and 3 with Winthrop College as host. Each club will send two delegates and their state officers. The theme for the conference is fellowship.

Canterbury Clubs represented at the September meeting were Winthrop, Furman, Clemson, and the University of South Carolina. Also present as advisers were Mrs. Judy Barlowe of Winthrop, Miss Betty Cruise of the University of South Carolina, the Rev. Thompson of Columbia, and the Rev. F. V. Fortune of Sumter.

Taps Request Sr. Information

All seniors who are going in the 1951 TAPS are requested to have their Senior Information Blanks in the TAPS office by Wednesday, October 11. These blanks may be picked up in the Guard Room or the TAPS office, basement of 7th barracks.

The versatile Bobby Byrne and his Orchestra will provide the music for the Rat Hop which will be held this week-end, October 6 and 7. The first dance of the year will feature two nights of dancing and a free concert. Tickets are on sale after dinner and supper in the guard room, and rooms for dates may also be secured during this time.

Bobby Byrne

Mooresville, N. C., alto sax, and George Brokenbocker, Clinton, tenor sax.

Leader Jones holds down the first trumpet chair with Foster Boone on ride trumpet and Robert Grubb on third. Jack Major, first trombone, has worked up a smooth style while playing with several groups this summer. Dave Peterson of Anderson occupies second trombone ride chair, while Bobby Willis of Gaffney does the honors as front man.

The rhythm section is still indefinite, but the most likely candidates appear to be Joe Hindman on drums with Professor J. R. Salley strumming the bass.

This year the orchestra will feature new outfits—distinctive skipper blue, one button row suits topped by gray ties with gold-embroidered J's. Bookings have already been secured for the P. C. Homecoming on October 13 and the "Professors' Dance" the night before.

An engagement with the University of Georgia is being completed, but the date is as yet uncertain. Several dates for the Christmas tour are still in the fire. Anyone wishing to hire the Jungaleers during the Christmas holidays should contact J. E. Major as early as possible.

The band will probably travel in cars this year, though "Old Reliable" is still on the job if needed to carry the Jungaleers on their merry, musical way.

Go, Tigers

Any of us would have been satisfied with a winning score, but to go into a game the underdog and come out a thirty-four to nothing winner is terrific.

We're not surprised, of course; we expected the boys to come through in masterly fashion, and they more than satisfied our expectations.

We feel that every man on the team is due a vote of thanks.

Clemson has always had top teams and 1950 is as good as any year for an outstanding performance. We do not profess to know the why or wherefore, but for some reason a football team has a lot to do with a college, and a good football team makes a good college grow great and prosper.

We're all-out for our team this year and wish them luck. They have what it takes!

Blame Yourself

The attendance at the Student Body meeting Tuesday night was terrible. There were hardly enough men to carry out the task of nominating the students who will lead them for the next year. Complaints were heard last year about some men who were nominated but no one has a kick this year.

All students seemed very interested in securing government by the students at Clemson, but unless more interest is shown, we might as well be on the old system. The student government officers cannot handle everything by themselves. They must have full cooperation of the student body.

Elections will be held next Tuesday. Three polls will be placed around the campus in convenient places. Students must present their athletic cards to be stamped as a requirement for voting. Last year, voting was fair, but this year, at least 90% of the student body should vote. If you don't vote, you can't say that you had a voice in government. The TIGER urges all students to exercise their right to vote.

If you don't vote and the wrong man gets in office, BLAME YOURSELF, because it will be your fault.

Circulation?

For some time now, the TIGER has been receiving letters from subscribers who want to know why they haven't received their copies yet. We don't want to cry on anybody's shoulder, but we're really in hot water.

Besides losing most of our senior staff over the summer, we are in a peculiar predicament. Our circulation manager went on an extended tour, leaving his assistant to handle the department. His assistant, however, has been in the hospital for the past week and no one else knows much about the work.

But the TIGER will get out. Please bear with us, and if your copy is late, please wait; we're doing our best.

Talk of the Town

"Country Gentlemen" Turn Into Pigs From The Country At Mess

By Harry Dukes

Although the cartoon at the top of this page is slightly exaggerated, it depicts a situation which will be in evidence soon, unless we do something about our table manners in the mess hall. Manners of late have left very much to be desired on the part of both cadet and veteran students.

I remember the expression on several freshmen's faces when they ate their first meal with the upperclassmen. It could perhaps be called a look of amazement but I think it was one of disgust. They probably wondered how a man could move so fast and empty his plate so rapidly. It seems strange to see such "perfect gentlemen" when they enter the mess hall. Stiff at attention, cadets are very mannerly. Suddenly from the speaker comes the word "rest" and then all hell breaks loose. Rather than a mess hall, it sounds like a real war! Hands and arms go flying through the air faster than the speed of sound. It amazes me—and I'm ashamed to admit that I am as guilty as anyone else.

It's a downright disgrace for guests to enter our mess hall and see just how we act. Let's stop this nonsense. You don't have to go directly by Emily Post methods. The trouble is that no one shows any consideration for the other fellow, who incidentally, is entitled to exactly the same thing you are. I know a lot who don't get it.

I know a certain tactical officer who ate in the mess hall at a company table, at a noon meal. He sat in the middle of the left hand side of the table. When the troops began to eat, the "bull" went to his left and made four stops before it was empty. The salad made three stops and I doubt if he got very much to eat before the waiter made two or three trips.

Let's stop this! It's so darn needless and it certainly gives visitors a poor impression. The only way that it will improve is for YOU to do something about it. What can you do? You can be a little more considerate of your "tablemates" and allow them to have a little "chow" before it's emptied by a few boys. The plates and bowls are sufficiently filled for eight people to have small servings on the first journey. When seconds are brought back, you can certainly have another helping. I'm sure Mr. Lindsay prepares enough food to feed us all as much as we want. Perhaps a comeback to this is that you don't have enough time to eat. That's absurd—you've got forty-five minutes before classes are resumed and that's plenty of time for a normal person to consume a tremendous steak. Another horrible example of poor manners is the method in which dishes are replaced on the table. It's like a game of checkers. Someone is always stacking a bowl on top of the milk pitcher. The way some things are stacked would do justice to a professional juggler. To get to the milk, you have to move about three bowls and the bread tray. Usually by that time you're ready to forget the whole thing.

The only criticism to make of the mess hall is the size of the bread trays. Couldn't a small tray be used to the same advantage? It gets in the way!

Remember that you certainly wouldn't use your Clemson manners at home, but you can certainly use your home manners at Clemson. It will make a lot of people happy, and it certainly would look a lot better.

tries to prove it.

This is our first dance, and before long the campus will be filled with the lady friends of Clemson men. But a few unfortunate (such as myself) have not been able to lull any girls to assist us to enjoy this weekend. So to those few these jokes are dedicated.

"Next to a beautiful girl, what do you consider the next most beautiful thing in the world?"
"When I am next to a beautiful girl, I don't worry about statistics."

An American sailor bribed his way into a Turkish harem, and was amazed to see a fat, bored eunuch playing a hose on a line-up of bewitching ladies.
"A religious rite?" asked the sailor.
"Not at all," said the eunuch. "Orders. When one of them sizes, I send her in to the sultan."

A fat dowager in a crowded Madison Avenue bus trod upon the foot of an irritable gent who was trying to read his newspaper.
"Madam," he said coldly, "I will ask you to kindly get off my foot."
"Put your foot where it belongs," she replied sharply.
"Don't tempt me, Madam, do not tempt me," he murmured.

A college man had a ready excuse for his rebuff. "Her old man is a second-hand furniture dealer," he explained. "No wonder she wouldn't allow much on the old davenport."

Well, that's all for this week, and we hope everyone is satisfied after the weekend.

Now That You Mention It . . .

This Criticism Is For the Few, So, If the Shoe Fits, Wear It!

By Billy Gaillard and Jack Hare

There are some people who can't take criticism in any way, shape or form. Unusually enough, after last week's column everybody had a gripe except those who were criticized. So, although we're not trying to keep everybody satisfied, we're more than willing to give credit where credit is due. We both know only too well how hard it is getting cooperation of any sort to get something done around here.

Student Government is rapidly becoming a bureaucracy. If many more committees are appointed no student can criticize the government without criticizing himself, because he will probably be on some committee or other. BUT, if Harrison McLaurin can accomplish one-tenth of the things he's undertaking, we'll consider the year a smashing success. It's probably better to be overorganized than under-organized, so here's wishing him, and all those organizations, lots of luck.

Three years ago, when we were freshmen, a drill platoon was formed from the freshman class. For six weeks this unit drilled every morning before reveille and almost every afternoon, and on Mother's Day the Freshman Platoon did credit to themselves and to those who backed them.

It was then decided to have a Freshman Platoon every year. For the past two years the process was followed, and, as a reward for their efforts the platoon members each received a ribbon.

But now, through someone's oversight, the Cadet Regulations omitted saying a thing about these particular ribbons, and the platoon members of previous years can't wear them. Maybe, after a month or two, someone will get around to issuing a special order permitting it, but until that time they'll do without.

We don't know just what will happen to those old members who have already gotten their ribbons, and who violate the sanctity of Cadet Regulations by wearing them. Some people ought to wise up. And while we're on the topic of the uniform and parts thereof, here's something we've heard quite a bit about. It seems that in the "old Clemson," juniors could be distinguished from other undergraduates by something more than a numeral on their collars. The seniors wore gold braid on their caps as they do now, but the junior officers that too often forgotten group, were allowed to wear a silver braid on theirs.

The way it was told to us the other night they had to be enrolled in advanced R. O. T. C. to be eligible for the braid. This is, of course, a minor point that could be straightened out by whomever is supposed to take care of such matters.

Everyone we've talked to about it is in full agreement with the idea of bringing it back. But would we be bringing it back or just bringing it in? No one is adverse to the idea, least of all the juniors (naturally.) If anyone knows for sure what the score is on the matter how about letting us know. Is it the real thing, or is it just another latrine rumor?

There's a movement afoot to abolish reveille. As a matter of fact, student gov-

Now Hear This . . .

Now Is Time to Plan Senior Project

By J. D. McMahan III

On behalf of the graduating seniors and myself, I would like to thank Mr. Metz and Miss Coker for making it possible for us to get our rings two weeks early. Your efforts were greatly appreciated!

Senior Project

Seniors, it's not too early for us to begin thinking about our class project. In fact, this is the very time for us to start working out plans.

After a great deal of consideration two recent classes adopted a plan that was enthusiastically received and accepted by a large percentage of both classes.

The whole point is that Clemson needs our support both now and in the future—financial support as well as moral of course. To most of us who are still grinding away with the old text-books, financial support sounds like a lot of baloney. But we don't have to fork out any of those hard-to-get dollars now.

The only project that the class of '50, for instance, considered (and most of those boys were pretty sensible when it came to thinking out things) was an insurance plan.

Here's the scoop. It's never too soon to start thinking about and planning for our future security. All right, here's what we can do: save any amount we want to, as little as 50 cents a week or as much as we can. Leave Clemson $100 of the dividends that ernment is working on it now. (Bravo!) Have you ever wondered just why the hell there is such a formation at Clemson? In the army there is more than enough reason for holding it, but there the troops are usually ready for a post-breakfast inspection. Clemson, being Clemson—NOT the U. S. Army—has little need for such tom-foolery.

What do YOU do that time of the morning? If you're like us you get up in a rush, put on your uniform, missing half the buttons, charge down endless flights of stairs, and just barely meet a formation you highly dislike. After cursing the sadist who first thought of reveille, you slowly, painfully retrace your agonizing steps back to a bed left only long enough to lose its warmth. There you unsuccessfully try to recall that beautiful dream the wake-up orderly so rudely interrupted, but soon think of ingenious tortures for the poor sadist.

After the bitterness has had a chance to wear off, you disdainfully try, without success, to excuse the sadist for this unwarranted interruption of your rest, then, finding no reasonable excuse, the arms of Morpheus again tighten their grip. You sleep the sleep of the dead. BUT NOT FOR LONG! Once again get up in a rush! Again you charge down those same stairs! Soon you are back where you were a few minutes before. Why?

Let's cooperate with the Student Government and with whoever else is working on the abolishment of reveille. And, should success be ours, let's go them one better and not come down to breakfast formation late. That would be like biting the hand that feeds us. In short, if we should be granted what we ask, let's show ourselves worthy of it. Student government may be sticking its neck out for us. If we ourselves chop it off we have no right to complain should they refuse to voice our opinions for us in the future.

The laundry service at Clemson used to be bad around these parts, but things have changed since then. Now the service is atrocious. How can they expect the troops to look neat if the laundry won't give us our clean clothes? We'd be afraid to say how long a certain "old lady" of ours has worn the same skivies.

Classes have a bad habit of griping about their student officers. Many times these gripes are justified, but when all the officers are nominated by a group so small that it represents a pitifully small fraction of the class, then no member of the class should even open his mouth. Tuesday night at the nomination for the vacated sophomore offices there were exactly SEVEN sophomores present—think of it—seven from a class of over seven hundred. So there shouldn't be any noise from the lower ranks this year. Incidentally there was more spirit and a better turnout among the so-called "lowly freshmen" in two minutes than the, shall we say, "superior" upperclassmen could have mustered in two years. You're off to a good start, Rats. Don't follow too many of your "leaders".

will accrue on this in a period of 20 years.

Kill three birds with one stone:

- (1) Help Clemson.
- (2) Start retirement plan now and
- (3) Protect any future of present dependents.

Sounds good, doesn't it?
It's foolproof.

Let's think about it and get the ball rolling before February graduates make their exits.

BE THERE

It seems useless to request your presence at the Pep Rally Friday night, because everyone will be there with possibly a half dozen exceptions. It's for that half dozen this space is filled. Boys, as you know, our team is off to a great start this year. They've started the ball rolling. Let's help keep it rolling by turning out Friday and showing them we're behind them 100 per cent—show them they're going to be "our team" all the way this season.

Let's let it all bang out! Bring your dates and anything else you can get your hands on. You freshmen won't have to run around the flag-pole when the "Tiger Rag" is played because of the ladies. The cheerleaders have a short but loud program on the menu starting at 7 p. m.

Platter Chatter

By STAN KOHN

Run for your lives kids, because the Cincinnati Dancing Pig is running loose in our midst. The Pig is a Mercury waxing featuring Vic Damone, who does a very good job, considering the tune. Flipover is Forbidden Love, which sounds like an overgrown Italian love song.

I'm gonna spin the next one for you because I was requested to listen to it. It's Night and Day by Artie Shaw and his orchestra on a disc from a Musicraft album done by the same group. His music is as good as can be expected and the selections are even better—they're Cole Porter tunes. Best in the book are In the Still of the Night and My Heart Belongs to Daddy. And this album even has vocals by Mel Tormé and Kitty Kallen. What more could you want?

Don Cornell is again making a bid for the fame he won with It Isn't Fair when he worked with Sammy Kaye. Now he's made even better music with his recording of I Need You So, this one without Mr. Kaye. Sammy has even torn up Don's contract and made him a single. Ah, the power of music.

I've got to play a very exhausting and confusing tune for you. I don't like it but maybe you will. If you think that the title is confusing you should listen to Peggy Lee Show Me the Way to Get Out of This World (Because That's Where Everything Is). Even she got confused, in fact, I'm still spinning. The record has a good high trumpet too. Backside is Happy Music, a happy tune that is a bit more refreshing.

About fifteen years ago there was a bandleader and songwriter named Isham Jones. He wrote as well as played some of the best music ever put out: No Greater Love, I'll See You in My Dreams, It Had to Be You, and one particular well-known bizarre tune called You're in the Army Now. All of the above tunes, except the Army song, have been assembled in an album by RCA named "Hugo Winterhalter Plays Isham Jones." Isham couldn't do better himself.

Now hear this Capitol disc I'm gonna spin. It's probably an old one on your record shelf, but pull it out fellas cause that Christy craze is coming back. I'm talking about June Christy's pressing of Willow Weep For Me. On reverse is Stan Kenton and Fantasy, which is just that. It features a well-known bunch of old Kenton men, Eddie Safranski on bass, Vido Musso on tenor, and Boots Mussulli on Alto.

The Lennie Tristano Sextette is out with some good listening with Wow on one side and Crosscurrent on the other. Lee Konitz plays Alto on the pair and he's good, in fact, wow!

The next sound that you will hear will be the drums of Gene Krupa on Lemon Drop. The other side might be more familiar to you, Simalu, but the Drop side is the best. Has Gene ever failed us?

The one twirling now is George Shearing again. The best on this is the Continental backed by Nothing But D. Best. The latter starts with a Latin American twist, but ends in that North American style.

This is a dedication to a girl by the same name: Sweet Lorraine played by the Metronome All Stars and vocaled by Frank Sinatra. Frankie's voice is very different in this old tune. It is somewhat softer and more soothing. The flipover is Nat Meets June and is a vocal duet by "King" Cole and June Christy. June sings like someone else, but Nat is natural. The same group of instrumentalists.

Benny Goodman is getting his clarinet out of mothballs and making some new records nowadays. None are out yet, but we'll use some of his old music for an example. There's A Small Hotel is a very good natural for Bennie's clarinet. He does it with the Goodman Quartet, and even works in a few bop breaks. The reverse is a not too effective Blue Lou.

On July 7 "Fats" Navarro died. He was a great trumpeter and had engraved his name and music on many records for us. "Fats" had everything a trumpeter could ask for: tone, ideas, execution, and reading ability. Hear his disc of Fat Girl or Tell Me Pretty Baby and see for yourself if it isn't some great bop that you're hearing.

Before I spin this last disc I've gotta know whether or not you like Erroll Garner and his piano. If you do then listen to him on All of Me and I Don't Stand A Ghost Of A Chance on a Savoy platter. These are two fine melodies by a fine pianist with a different style.

Clemson Plays Wolfpack Saturday Night

Predictors Pick Scores

By Doc Baker and Harold Owen

We improved our average by no less than nine points, picking 33 winners out of 43 games. We are now smiling at a .759 percentag.

We not only upped the average, but we correctly picked two of the biggest upsets of the week—Clemson over Missouri and SMU over Ohio State. All this luck, rather skill, leads us to try something very novel, which only "Scoop" Latimer should try. We have decided to take some of the major games in the area, as well as the nation, and predict the score with the winner. We'll begin in our own back yard.

CLEMSON OVER N. C. STATE

—There's nothing but rejoicing in Tigertown over last week's triumph at the hands of Missouri. Our guess is that they'll beat N. C. State by a score of 27-0.

South Carolina over Furman—Those Gamecocks have the best team they've had in years. After considering the rivalry between the two schools we pick Carolina to come out on the better end by a 21-6 score.

Presbyterian to beat Davidson by a score of 20-13. After all, these Blue Stockings aren't having such a bad year. They've upset the "poop" sheets more than once.

Washington and Lee over The Citadel—Looks like another scolding is in store for the Bulldogs. Our prediction—the Generals to win by a 40-6 score.

North Carolina over Georgia—The Bulldogs will be out to avenge a tie by St. Mary's from last week. However, the Tarheels almost shocked the sports world at South Bend. The crystal ball says it'll be North Carolina, 21-13.

Duke over Tennessee — Where was the general last week? He took a few to the rear... marches at the hands of Mississippi State. If history repeats itself, the Vols will give the Blue Devils a rough time. Nevertheless, we see Duke in a 14-7 win.

Notre Dame over Purdue—The pigskin tyrant may be tottering, but it hasn't fallen yet. After last week's score, Frank Leahy is probably emphasizing work, work and more work. We pick the Irish to win 28-12.

SMU over Missouri —Those Mustangs really pulled a hot one against Ohio State. Since we can't compare SMU and Clemson in an unbiased manner, it's quite apparent that the score won't be as one-sided. The rabbit's foot wiggles 27 times for SMU, 7 times for Missouri.

Penn State over Army—UPSET OF THE WEEK—This probably sounds as preposterous as last week when we picked the Tigers over Missouri. We're going into a seance where we can see Penn State 21—Army 20.

Michigan State over Maryland —The Spartans had their share of the upset cake last week... Ask anyone at Michigan. Maryland has been somewhat disappointing thus far in the season. If the system works, Michigan State 34, Maryland 20.

California over Pennsylvania—We went to see a soothsayer on this one. The results show California winning by a 28-13 score. Rice over LSU—Jess Neely appears to be headed for another winning year. We predict the Owls to emerge victorious to the tune of 26-13.

Alabama over Vanderbilt—The Tide cut down the Wave last week; we don't see enough opposition to throttle it this week. Our final conclusion is that Alabama will come through on the better end of a 27-13 score.

UCLA over Washington — The Bruins to take a 26-21 victory from the Huskies.

Georgia Tech over Florida—After two rough starts, we think Tech will win one; picking the score as 20-6.

The above fifteen games is our selection for the cream of the crop in the football dairy. Here's hoping we can subdue the criticisms and ridiculing that will come. Picking the winners for the remaining games, we find: TCU over Arkansas, Mississippi State over Baylor, Boston College over Mississippi, Boston University over Duquesne, Holy Cross over Brown, Bucknell over Lehigh, Kansas over Colorado, Harvard over Columbia, Cornell over Syracuse, Michigan over Dartmouth, Kentucky over Dayton, College of the Pacific over Denver, Yale over Fordham, Georgetown over Tulsa, George Washington over West Virginia, Illinois over Wisconsin, Iowa over Indiana, Miami over Xavier, Minnesota over Nebraska, Navy over Northwestern, Oklahoma A & M over Drake, Oklahoma over Texas A & M, Montana over Oregon, Princeton over Rutgers, VMI over Richmond, Stanford over Oregon State, Texas over Temple, Tulane over Louisiana College, Virginia over VPI, and Wake Forest over William and Mary.

State Comes To Memorial Stadium As Bengals Try For Third Straight Win

When N. C. State's Wolfpack invades Memorial Stadium Saturday night, Clemson will be seeking their third straight win of the 1950 football season. Coach Frank Howard is not taking this game too lightly either, for the Wolfpack gave North Carolina a tough game two weeks ago, making the Tar Heels fight hard for a 13-7 victory. This will mark the twenty-seventh meeting between the two teams, and Clemson will be out for their eighteenth triumph. The Bengals have been beaten seven times by State, while one game ended in a tie.

Come Down to Earth

Jackie Calvert and Head Coach Frank Howard are shown above immediately after getting off the plane at the Anderson airport. The Tigers had just returned to Anderson from defeating the University of Missouri 34-0, an upset victory in which Jackie Calvert had played an important part.

Tigers Pin Hopes For Gridiron Glory On Educated Toe Of Charles Radcliff

Charles Radcliff, Clemson's man with the educated toe, is very definitely a rarity among extra point specialists. While most point kickers have some peculiarity about kicking a goal such as plucking a blade of grass while leaving the field, Charles does not. He just boots the ball and hopes for the best.

In all his years spent at kicking extra points for Maury High school in Norfolk, Va., later for the Tiger frosh, and now for the varsity he has never seen the ball go through the uprights.

Charles was a member of the wrestling and the track teams as well as playing first string for his high school football team. He received honorable mention on the all-state team.

The little guard and his brother Billy who plays in the Tiger backfield came to Clemson because they liked the coaching staff and also because they lived

Clemson's line-up is expected to be the same as the one that handed Missouri a 34-0 defeat last week. Glenn Smith and Kempson will likely be at the two end positions on defense with Bob Hudson taking over the left end duties on offense.

Grigsby and Patton will probably open at the tackle positions with Dick Gillespie and Jack Mooneyham getting in on much of the offense. At the offensive guards Manos, DiMucci, and Rodgers will all see service, while Barclay Crawford and Sterling Smith are expected to be on defensive duty.

Jack Brunson and Joe Bryant, both of whom played well against Missouri, will be the offensive centers, while Don Wade may get the nod on defense.

The starting backfield will undoubtedly remain the same with one possible exception. At the blocking back position, Wyndie Wyndham who is feeling the effects of last week's Missouri game, may not be able to see any action. If he is unable to play, Dick Hendley will get the nod. Otherwise the backfield will remain the same with Cone at fullback, Calvert at his regular tailback slot and Mathews on the wing. Billy Hair, who hasn't yet recovered from a leg injury received before the P. C. game, is not counted upon too heavily as the head Tiger mentor wants his sophomore star to be ready to go against Carolina.

For the Wolfpack of State College, it will be Ed Mooney running from the tailback position and pacing the Tar Heel's attack. Mooney, who hails from Draper, N. C., is ranked thirteenth in the nation in passing offense, completing 47.6% of his aeriels for 329 yards and one touchdown.

On the receiving end of many of Mooney's passes is expected to be Tony Romanowsky, senior end from Girard, Ohio. Bolstering a line weakened by graduation will be Elmer Costa, a 225-pound tackle who hails from Patterson, N. J.

The lineup:

Tiger Cubs Show Promise In 36-0 Win Over Citadel

Clemson's Baby Bengals exploded all over the field to route the Citadel Bullpups. Saturday night displaying an array of sparkling backs. The game was featured by the long runs of Robert Paredes from McKeesport, Penn., James Wells and Jim Brigman from Columbia, along with some fine quarterbacking on the part of Eugene Moxley of Dublin. Also the Baby Tigs put forth a stout forward wall with the two Gressette boys from St. Mathews, D. K. Page of Mullins, also McAllister, Carnes, Basilone, and Wyatt.

Citadel won the toss and elected to receive. After one play Beaufort Blanton carried 9 yards for a first down, but the Citadel offense stalled and they punted to the Clemson 20. Clemson could gain nothing and punted to the Citadel 40.

Neither could The Citadel dent the strong forward wall of the Tigers and punted right back to the 20. On the second play from scrimmage Brigman put on a thrilling piece of broken-field running and carried to The Citadel six yard line where on the next play he broke over tackle to score. The conversion failed and the score remained 6-0.

Citadel took the kickoff on their 18 and began to show a little life. Walker took a pass from Williams the quarterback for 30 yards for a first on the midfield stripe. Williams again taking to the air shot a bullet pass to Parsons for another first down.

Mathews, Cone Gain Scoring Leadership With 24 Points Each

The Tigers' touchdown duo, "Furious" Fred Cone and "Ragin'" Ray Mathews are currently battling it out for the individual football leadership in the Southern Conference with 24 points apiece.

Cone bulled his way for two tallies in the Missouri game to catch Mathews who accounted for one TD in that contest to go with three he made against Presbyterian.

Furman's Ed Jasonek has 18 points to his credit to place him in a third place tie with Joe Stump of Virginia Military.

Mathews and Cone are also in a three-way tie for first place in the state race. Bob Neal of Erskine though he failed to score in Erskine's last game still had enough points to hold on to a tie.

Clemson's Jackie Calvert and Charles Radcliff also bolted into the top ten scores of the state with 12 and 11 points respectively. Radcliff's counters have come solely by kicking 11 extra points in 12 attempts.

Eugene Moxley, freshman quarterback, is shown above as he heads downfield on one of his several long runs in last Saturday's frosh game with the Citadel Bullpups. The Cubs scored a smashing 36-0 win over the boys from Charleston.

Still traveling via the air route Williams passed to Parsons again, this time going to the Clemson 28. Their offense bogged down as the Tigers stiffened on pass defense, and Clemson took over on their own 24.

On the first play of the second quarter Wells picked up ten on an off tackle slant to the 30. Moxley ploughed for 7 and Gressette, the third of the Gressette trio from St. Mathews, made it a first on the 45. Wells and Moxley comined to pick up another first down to The Citadel 43. Wells running again neatly sneaked off tackle for another first and ten to the 32, but a 15 yard penalty temporarily set the Tigers back. Moxley passed to Pettus for 20, but not enough for a first down, and The Citadel took over on its own 35.

The Bullpups made a first after three running plays, but were forced to punt on the fol-

TIGERS HIGH IN NATION IN OFFENSE

Figures released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau, division of Official College statistics, showed Clemson's powerful Tigers high among the nation's top offensive teams. Clemson's big three in the backfield, Cone, Mathews, and Calvert, also were high among the country's top rushing and offensive stars.

As a team, the Bengals are in second place in total offense. Only Princeton is ahead of the Tigers who have amassed a total of 1056 yards in 148 rushes. This gives Clemson the second best average of any team in the country, 528 yards. On 118 rushing plays the Country Gentlemen have gained 856 yards for an average of 428 yards per game. This, too, was good for second place in the nation.

After a brilliant exhibition of offensive ability against Missouri last Saturday, Jackie Calvert moved into fifth place in individual total offense. Jackie, in 40 plays, has accounted for 395 yards of Clemson's total. Right ahead of Calvert is Duke's Billy Cox who has only 46 more yards gained than Jackie, but has participated in 51 more plays. Ray Mathews, the Tiger's steady wingback, has picked up 340 yards while handling the ball 47 times.

In the rushing department, Jackie Calvert also rates fifth place, picking up 284 yards in 27 rushes. Fred Cone, Clemson's All-American candidate who does no passing, has accounted for 254 yards in 43 tries at the line. Mathews is right behind Cone's ninth place position with 251 yards gained in 32 attempts.

BENGALS SURVIVE MISSOURI TEST

Clemson's powerful Tigers survived their first major test of the 1950 football season by walloping a highly favored Missouri eleven 34-0. The Southern Bengals were playing at a peak performance which enabled them to pull the major upset of the week throughout the nation.

Jackie Calvert was easily the outstanding player of either team as he ran and passed the Tigers to a hard fought, but rightfully won victory. Fred Cone gained the honor of outstanding fullback in the country for his contributions to the win, as he tallied two more touchdowns, one on a fifty yard run. Ray Mathews also contributed to the upset as time after time he pulled Clemson out of tight spots with his tricky running and accurate passing.

The surprising feature of the game, however, was the sudden invincible defense the Bengals from Carolina threw up at the Mid-Westerners. Fred "Knobby" Knoebel and Gil Rushton led the pass defense, while Wyndie Wyndham contributed to the halting of Missouri's ground attack.

TIGERS FACE TOUGH TEST IN STATE

While the Bengal Tigers are fresh from a 34-0 white-washing of the University of Missouri out in Columbia, Clemson's gridiron may be determined Saturday night when N. C. State comes to Memorial Stadium for the twenty-seventh renewal of the long series. In recent years, the emphasis has been upon defense, for in the last two games, Clemson has managed to tally thirteen points, while the Wolfpack has counted six points. This would make an average of four and one-fourth points per game per team. That is mighty little scoring considering some of the scores in recent years.

While many observers are picking the Tigers by several touchdowns, the Clemson Bengals will have to play "heads-up" football if they are to keep their unblemished record. The Wolfpack was "up" for their game with the Tar Heels of North Carolina and gave Snavely's charges a rough tussle before bowing out 7-13. Last week State was "down" and was almost defeated by a fired-up Catawba eleven. This coming Saturday, the Wolfpack is due to be "up", and Clemson should not take this game too lightly, for this could easily spell the difference between a mediocre and a great season for the purple and orange.

CONGRATULATIONS!! STETSON!!

It seems to me that congratulations are in order to Stetson University for proving to Wofford that it would take a team the calibre of Notre Dame to defeat the Black and Gold. Stetson broke Wofford's win streak by beating them 26-23.

BOBBY GAGE STARS FOR STEELERS

Former Bengal star Bobby "Schoolboy" Gage, is once again leading the Pittsburgh Steelers in their gridiron conquests. After losing their first two starts, the Steelers last Saturday took the measure of Washington's Redskins 26-7. Following a Pittsburgh field goal, Gage led the Steeler ground attack by scoring their first touchdown which provided the margin of victory.

In several pre-season exhibition games, Gage, who was nicknamed "Papa" by his teammates, got off for long runs consistently. Included in his long sprints were scoring runs of 80, 70, and 60 yards as the former Anderson High star showed the reason many observers of the pro game consider Bobby the best broken field runner in the game today.

ATTENTION!! JUNIORS, SOPHOMORES!!

Juniors who do not want to lose their priority are urged to go by the Field House before October 10 and pick up their reserved tickets for the Carolina game. Date tickets may be purchased at the same time so that a cadet and his date may sit together. Sophomores will receive their ducats from October 10 to 12.

Since the Athletic Association has done so much to help get reserved seats for Clemson students, we should show our appreciation to them by co-operating fully with this plan.

Calvert, Cone, Mathews Lead Offense; Rushton And Knoebel Defensive Stars

Off to a quick start, Clemson's dynamic gridiron machine rolled over a highly favored Missouri eleven 34-0. The Tigers grabbed the lead in the very first minute of play, and went on to not only defeat the Missouri Bengals but to shut the mout for the first time since 1946 when S. M. U. turned the trick. Jackie Calvert, candidate for sectional honors this year, led the Clemson attack as he put on the best passing and running performance of his college career.

Fred Cone and Ray Mathews also had a hand in the victory which got the Tigers past one of their toughest tests of the season. Although halted for part of the afternoon, Cone piled over for one score from the one yard line and broke away for a second touchdown from fifty yards out. Mathews continually ran for valuable yardage when it was needed. The boy from McKeesport, Pa., also was on the receiving end of several passes adding to his overall yardage gained.

Leading the unexpectedly strong defense of the Carolina Tigers were Gil Rushton and "Knobby" Knoebel. These two were largely responsible for the poor showing of Missouri's passing attacks as the Mid-Westerners could connect on only seven aeriels in 27 attempts for fifty yards. On the ground Wyndie Wyndham and Don Wade were the mainstays backing up the Tiger forward wall while up front Sterling Smith, Barclay Crawford, Bob Patton, and Billy Grigsby did much of the tackling.

CALVERT RACES

The Country Gentlemen overpowered the Missourians five captains to two and won the toss, electing to receive. Mathews returned the kick-off back to the nineteen where the Clemson Bengals put the ball in play. Then, like a bolt of lightning, Jackie Calvert burst through right tackle and sped eighty-one yards to give Clemson a lead with the game not a minute old. Radcliff converted and the Howardmen had their margin of victory, 7-0.

Ghoully was brought down by Rushton after returning Cone's kick-off from the goal to the Missouri eighteen. The Mid-Western Tigers advanced for a first down to their own thirty-four, but Clemson forced a punt. Calvert returned Klein's boot ten yards to the Clemson twenty-three. Unable to gain, Cone punted to Ghoully who returned to the Missouri forty-five. With Gloriosso, Klein overshot his mark and the Country Gentlemen once again forced a punt.

Taking over on their twenty when Klein's kick went over the goal. The Carolina Bengals began to roll. Calvert gained five off left tackle. Clemson was penalized five yards for taking too much time, but Calvert's long pass to Hendley was complete, and Clemson was moving toward the Missouri goal. Cone got five yards in two tries and punted out of bounds on the Missouri eight after a third down pass failed.

Working from a punt-T formation, the Mid-Westerners gained a first down and were headed for another when a penalty stopped them. Henley quick-kicked to the Clemson twenty-three where the Howardmen took over.

Cone made five at right tackle. Mathews then raced twenty yards for a first down on Missouri's forty-eight. Cone again in the middle was stopped after a two yard pickup. Calvert hit Glenn Smith with a pass good for thirteen yards and another first down on the home team's thirty-three. Mathews wide around left end made three, and Calvert also to the left picked up six more yards. Cone plunged for the first down on the Missouri twenty as the first quarter ended.

CALVERT PASSES TO SMITH
Several plays later, the Bengals added another touchdown to their lead as Jackie Calvert hit Glenn Smith in the end zone, and Clemson led 14-0 after Radcliff's conversion.

Missouri regained the offensive on her own forty-two after the kick-off, and immediately began to march. Gloriosso went through right tackle for three yards. Gloriosso again carried the all, this time for eight yards and a first down on the Clemson forty-seven.

Wyndham knocked Gloriosso out of bounds after he had picked up another eight yards. After a long pass was broken up on the ten yard line, Carter picked up a first down around right end, and Missouri held the ball thirty four yards from the Clemson goal. Gloriosso passed twice, both falling incomplete. Henley's screen pass to Gloriosso failed to gain, and a fourth down aerial was broken up by the alert Clemson defense in the end zone.

The Bengals regained possession of the ball on their own thirty-four, but Cone fumbled as the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER—CONE SCORES TWICE

Missouri returned Cone's third quarter kick-off to their twenty-four. The men of Don Faurot advanced to their own forty-five before Clemson's hard tackling and excellent defense halted the attack. A fourth down run failed to make the necessary yardage, and the Carolina Bengals took over at that point.

A fifteen yard penalty set Clemson back to their forty-two. Then Jackie Calvert swept right end for thirty-three yards and a first down on the Missouri twenty-five. Mathews broke around the left side of the line for another first down as the Mid-Westerners seemed baffled at the precision.

State, Conference Lead Held By Tigs

The Clemson Tigers increased their lead against other state teams as they scored their second straight win without a loss. Erskine and P. C. went into a second place tie when both teams won last week's games over East Tennessee and Western Carolina Teachers respectively. Wofford and Carolina are now deadlocked for the third place position in state standings.

Now for a look at the Southern Conference ratings. Washington and Lee still leads the Southern Conference teams in league games played with two victories to their record without a loss. There is a four-way tie for the second place position between Duke, Wake Forest, North Carolina, and George Washington.

Including all games played in the Southern Conference, Clemson is in a three-way tie with Washington and Lee and Duke for first place.

Out of the seventeen teams in the Southern Conference, Clemson is the only one yet to be scored on.

The Tigers will meet their first Southern Conference team this week-end when they play N. C. State here at Clemson's Memorial Stadium.

This Year's Cheerleaders

Tig Swimmers Begin; Team Needs Divers And Free-Style Men

Coach C. M. McHugh issued his first call for Clemson tankmen at a meeting of the swimming team Monday night. During the short session, Mr. McHugh mentioned the team's success last year and exhibited his desire for a winning team again this year.

Also, emphasis was placed on the need for some divers, as this position was virtually left blank after graduation. Then, too, there are several openings for dashmen, breast stroke and backstrokers.

The swimming mentor said that there were many students here at Clemson who could develop into top notch performers if they would only come down to the pool and work.

Newcomers and freshmen are asked to contact Mr. McHugh in the Engineering building if they are interested in the swimming team. With the opening meet against Davidson coming up shortly after Christmas, it is necessary to begin preparations before too much time passes.

Associated Press Survey Ranks Tigers 18 in Nation

Clemson's flying Tigers are receiving nation-wide recognition after their stunning defeat of Missouri last tweek. Previous surveys had the Bengals rated as a rebuilding team, picked by many to have a mediocre season. Now, the situation is reversing. Cone, the pile-driving fullback from Alabama, strengthened his bid for All-American honors by breaking through for fifty yards and a touchdown. Wyndham, a blocking back, also served notice that he was very capable.

However, it is the entire Clemson team and coaching staff that returned from Columbia, Missouri, with the bacon. They are slowly but surely receiving the recognition they are earning. This is evidenced by an Associated Press release which has the Tigers eighteenth in the nation.

Points were tabulated on a 10-9-8-7-6, etc. basis with ten points for a no. 1 vote. Clemson received three of these ten-pointers.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 2...THE BLOW FISH

"Shucks—I blew in when I should've blown out!"

Pity the poor Pisces! He's been making all those trick cigarette tests you've been reading about! He's taken one puff of this brand—one sniff of that. A quick inhale of cigarette "A"—a fast exhale of cigarette "B"—and he's still confused! Seriously, isn't the sensible way to test a cigarette to smoke pack after pack, day after day?

That's the test Camel asks you to make—the 30-Day Mildness Test. Smoke Camels—and only Camels—regularly for 30 days. Your "T-Zone" (T for Throat and T for Taste)—is the real proving ground for any cigarette. After you've tried Camels as your regular smoke, you'll know why...

Y. M. C. A. Has Varied And Valuable Services; Students Urged Use Them

While most Clemson students realize the existence of the YMCA, most of them think little about its valuable and varied services to the student body. Mr. P. B. Holtzendorff, "Y" General Secretary, is anxious that all students know that the "Y" is available and that its privileges belong to each of them.

The building is open at any time a student might wish to come in and relax, read, or enjoy its recreational facilities. The pool tables and ping-pong equipment are available at a very small charge, and many first-rate movies can be seen at a reduced price in either of the two theaters.

The swimming pool in the basement is open from 10:00 a. m. to 8:00 p. m. for everyone's convenience, and an outstanding intra-mural sports program under the direction of Mr. Cooper and in cooperation with the Athletic Association is planned with the students in mind. Volley ball is in the air at this time and it will be followed by basketball, touchball, tennis, and other recreational activities enjoyed by the Clemson boys.

The YMCA also serves in an important capacity by ministering to the spiritual needs of the student. Evening Watch and Forum groups, which are now being instituted in the barracks, are sponsored by the "Y" in cooperation with the student and religious leaders of the various campus churches.

Vesper programs, available Sunday afternoon and immediately after supper, feature groups from other colleges and guest speakers, many of whom are Clemson graduates. Interesting reels of news, travel, scientific, and religious topics are shown plus some of the world's finest choir music. The YMCA extends a special invitation to cadets to be present at these services.

Association with "Y" work during college years can be a great addition to one's education and of no little value further along in life. Christian friendships made here will always stand a man in good stead. If at any time students find they need assistance with some problem, they are cordially invited to pay a visit to Mr. Holtzendorff, Major S. M. Martin, Chairman of the advisory board; Dr. G. H. Aull, Vice-Chairman of this group; all members of the board and the members of the staff. These "Y" workers are glad to give any help they can.

The YMCA hopes that you will have a good year at Clemson and that succeeding years will be useful and inspiring as they present new challenges and opportunities for work well done.

Dear Tom,
When I was a rat I was treated as a rat, but now that I'm a senior I'm still treated as a rat. Yep, that's the way most of us fourth year men feel these days. There are many and sordid reasons for this unpleasant state of affairs, but I have one gripe in particular that I think you ought to know about. It's the allotment of date tickets to "Big Thursday."

Now, Tom, I don't feel that I'm and better than the rest of the student body; it seems I'm just unluckier than some. Monday, senior date tickets went on sale and did they sell! It was three o'clock before I could get to the field house, due to classes, quizzes, and the uncuttable E. E. Lab.

By this time all the tickets were sold. I tried to look pathetic but was met with a cold "No" when I asked to be allowed to leave my money in case only two hundred and forty-nine juniors wanted date tickets. The only chance I was given was to join the mad rush after the freshman sale, and, knowing my luck much previous experience, I don't have a chance.

Tom, there are forty thousand seats in that stadium, half of which belongs to Clemson, and everybody's uncle will be there. I hate to write this, Tom, but gosh, how I hate to write my date, especially after all I've told her of my great importance as a Clemson senior. To make matters worse, we were to double-date with a Wofford junior, and a close friend of my date. This Wofford junior has box seats on the fifty yard line, Clemson side. Ironic, eh?

Well, you give me one consolation, Tom. If I have to scrape up enough money to buy a ticket des and put on a greaty laisp des, and put on a great display of broken-field running as he out distanced the whole Citadel backfield to score, the play covering 54 yards. Extra point again missed.

Citadel took the kickoff on its 20 yard line. Beaufort Blanton, running magnificently covered 20 yards on the first play from scrimmage, and on the next play he again broke into the Tiger secondary for 40 yards, but fumbled on the play as Clemson recovered on its own 9 yard line. On the first play Clemson fumbled back with the Citadel recovering as the half ended.

Citadel kicked to the Clemson 0 to start the second half. Parades taking the kick picked up his interference and covered a total of 90 yards for the longest run of the day as he sidestepped through the entire Citadel team. Again the extra point attempt failed.

Citadel took the kickoff on its 25, and was penalized 15 yards from where they elected to punt. Clemson ran the kick back to the Citadel's 40 where Moxley's 15 yard run was nullified by a penalty, the ball now resting on the 35. Roy Barker came into the game and immediately electrified the crowd as he sidestepped his way through the entire Citadel defense for another score, the play covering 35 yards. The extra point was missed again. The score now 24-0.

Citadel took the kickoff on their 30, failed to gain and punted on fourth down to the Clemson 25 at the end of the third quarter. On the first play of the fourth quarter Massey picked up 10 to the 35, but on the next play Citadel intercepted a Tiger pass on the midfield stripe.

Cautious for the Citadel caught a pass for 12, but on the next play Tucker fumbled and Clemson recovered on their 35.

Parades slipped off tackle for 15 and a first, Maloney, a newcomer went all the way to the Citadel's 20 on a nice run. Wells again showing his versatility tugged the pigskin all the way to the 3, and on the next play from one of the local "scalpers" I'll live for the day I can give IPTAY a horse laugh when (and if) I'm asked to join. I think I once heard someone from the Athletic Association moan the low percentage of Clemson grads who join IPTAY—Wonder why? I remain yours till June (I hope).

Sincerely,
Jesse Crim

Controlled Production Of Atomic Energy Is Practical, Kingdon

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 2—The first controlled chain reaction producing atomic energy in the northeastern part of the United States was initiated near here two and a half years ago.

This was revealed today by Dr. Kenneth H. Kingdon, technical manager of the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory, operated by the General Electric Company for the Atomic Energy Commission.

He said that the reaction was achieved at the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory in a PPA, for "preliminary pile assembly," which has been in regular operation since that time. PPA's, also called "zero power" reactors because they operate at very low power for safety in the laboratory, make possible the quick testing of mock-ups of different reactor designs.

Such a reactor, or "pile," will not function unless a certain critical amount of uranium 235 or other fissionable material is brought together, said Dr. Kingdon. The Knolls PPA first attained this critical condition, and began to yield small amounts of power, on April 22, 1948, at 4:20 p. m., EST, he said. Since then it has been brought to "criticality" some 2000 times.

Dr. Kingdon explained that the PPA is primarily an experimental tool, for testing those phases of reactor design which are not directly connected with the generation of large amounts of power. This has required that it be taken down and reassembled in eleven different combinations.

Although a commercial atomic power plant might produce many thousands of kilowatts, he explained, this PPA has been operated at powers of only a few watts. This limitation of power was necessary in order to restrict the radioactivity of the Cleveland ploughed over. The conversion failed for the fifth straight time, the score now 30-0.

Citadel received on their 20, Roberts took a pass to the 35, but after gaining nothing on the next four plays, Clemson took over on the midfield stripe. Clemson accomplished nothing, and was forced to punt. The Citadel could not gain and punted.

Clemson's entire bench was now playing. Strickland took the punt on his 45 yard line and went all the way to the Citadel 10 yard line behind excellent blocking. Parades passed beautifully to Chastain in the end zone. Again the conversion failed and the score now read 36-0. The game ended one minutes later with the Citadel throwing des-sion and deception with which Clemson carried out their single wing attack.

Mathews again carrying just failed to make it across the double stripes. However, on the next play, Fred Cone plunged across to make the score read Clemson 20, Missouri 0. The try for the conversion was good, but after a fifteen yard penalty against the Bengals from Clemson, a second try failed.

Following the next kick-off, Glenn Smith recovered a Missouri fumble on the Mizzou thirty-eight. Unable to move, Cone punted out of bounds on the Mid-Westerner's fifteen.

The Bengals from Truman's home state moved all the way down into Clemson territory, before the Tigers could halt the attack. Taking over on their forty-three, Clemson once again started to move. Mathews got one, and Calvert added six. Cone then burst through the middle of the Missouri line and raced fifty-one yards to add six more points to Clemson's lead. Radcliff converted again and Clemson was out in front 27-0.

Missouri once more marched up the field but was held at the Carolinians' forty-seven. Henley punted out of bounds on the Tiger seven.

After Clemson was unable to gain, Cone punted with Missouri returning the boot to the Clemson thirty-nine. One pass was good for a first down, but Calvert intercepted another aerial in the end zone and Clemson regained the offensive on their twenty.

Mathews passed to Glenn Smith for a first down. However, Clemson was halted, and Cone punted out of bounds on the Missouri thirty-five. Then the Mid-Westerners began another drive which carried to the Southerner's seventeen where Clemson took over on downs.

Failing to gain, Cone dropped back to punt, but was rushed and tackled on Clemson's nineteen. Missouri took the ball on downs at that point. Once again the Missouri had a golden opportunity to score. However, Clemson's defense stiffened, and the Carolina Bengals took over on their twenty when Gil Rushton intercepted a pass in the end zone. Calvert made five yards, and parade passes, but to no avail, parts of the assembly to such low values that they could be handled manually with safety.

The fact that operation of the PPA has been entirely systematic and uneventful, Dr. Kingdon pointed out, shows once more the controllability and reliability of a properly designed nuclear reactor.

Cone made it a first down. Calvert then raced twenty-three yards as he picked up a first down on the Missouri forty-seven. Next it was Mathews' turn. After a two yard pick-up, the Pennsylvania flyer sped forty yards to the Missouri five where a shoe-string tackle by Burkhardt stopped a score.

MATHEWS SCORES

Mathews made two yards at right tackle. Cone lost six as he recovered his own fumble. Calvert tried left tackle, advancing four yards, and Mathews went wide around right end to tally Clemson final touchdown. Radcliff converted, and Clemson held a commanding 34-0 lead with but a minute and five seconds remaining in the game.

Missouri received Cone's kick and ended the game with several long aerials in an attempt to pierce Clemson's surprisingly strong defense.

Veterans' Corner

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to four questions of interest to former servicemen and their dependents:

Q. My husband was killed in action during World War II, and I have just remarried. Am I eligible for a GI home loan under the new law that allows widows to obtain such loans?

A. No. A condition of the law is that you must not have remarried following your husband's death.

Q. My son and I have been drawing death compensation pay from VA, as I am a widow of a World War II veteran. I have arranged for my son to live for a while with his grandmother. Will his payments continue?

A. Yes. Payments may be made to the person who has custody of your child.

Q. Is it possible to pay National Service Life Insurance premiums from my disability compensation pay?

A. Yes. Authorization for premium deductions from your compensation pay must be made in writing over your signature—preferably on a VA form which you can obtain at any VA office. Send the application to the VA district office to which you now pay your premiums.

Q. I am a disabled veteran in training under Public Law 16. May I get hospitalization from VA for an ailment not related to my service-connected disability?

A. Yes. You are entitled to treatment medically determined necessary to prevent interruption of your training—regardless of its relation to your former military service.

(Veterans wishing further information concerning veterans' benefits may have their questions answered by contacting the nearest VA office.)
